

How Do Race, Gender, and Weapon Type Shape Poverty Rates?

INTRODUCTION

Poverty rates vary significantly by armed category, race, and gender in this dataset. This poster explores average poverty rates across armed categories and racial groups, highlighting gender differences. The analysis reveals Native Americans and certain armed categories face the highest poverty rates.

01 Poverty rates vary across armed categories with gender differences in top categories.

02 Poverty rates differ by race, with gender impacting the top races affected.

03 Race and gender influence poverty rates differently within firearm and knife categories.

CONCLUSION

Poverty rates differ notably across armed categories, races, and genders. Native Americans experience the highest poverty rates among racial groups. Gender influences poverty rates within top armed categories and races. Firearm and knife categories show distinct poverty patterns by race and gender.