

How Do Age and Race Shape Crime Victimization Patterns Across Cities?

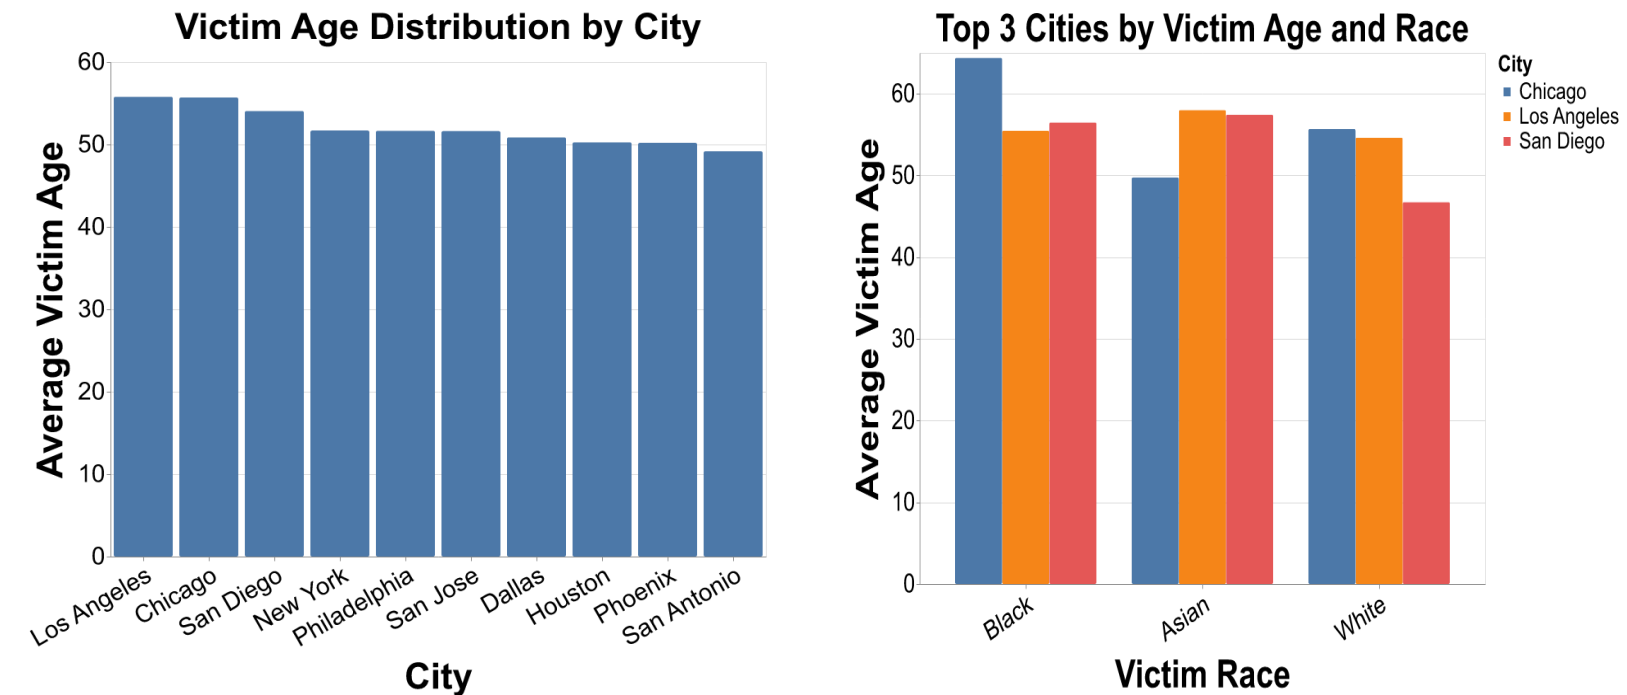

INTRODUCTION

Crime victim age varies by crime type, city, and race across major US cities. This poster analyzes average victim ages for different crimes and demographics. Data covers top crime types and cities, highlighting key age patterns and disparities.

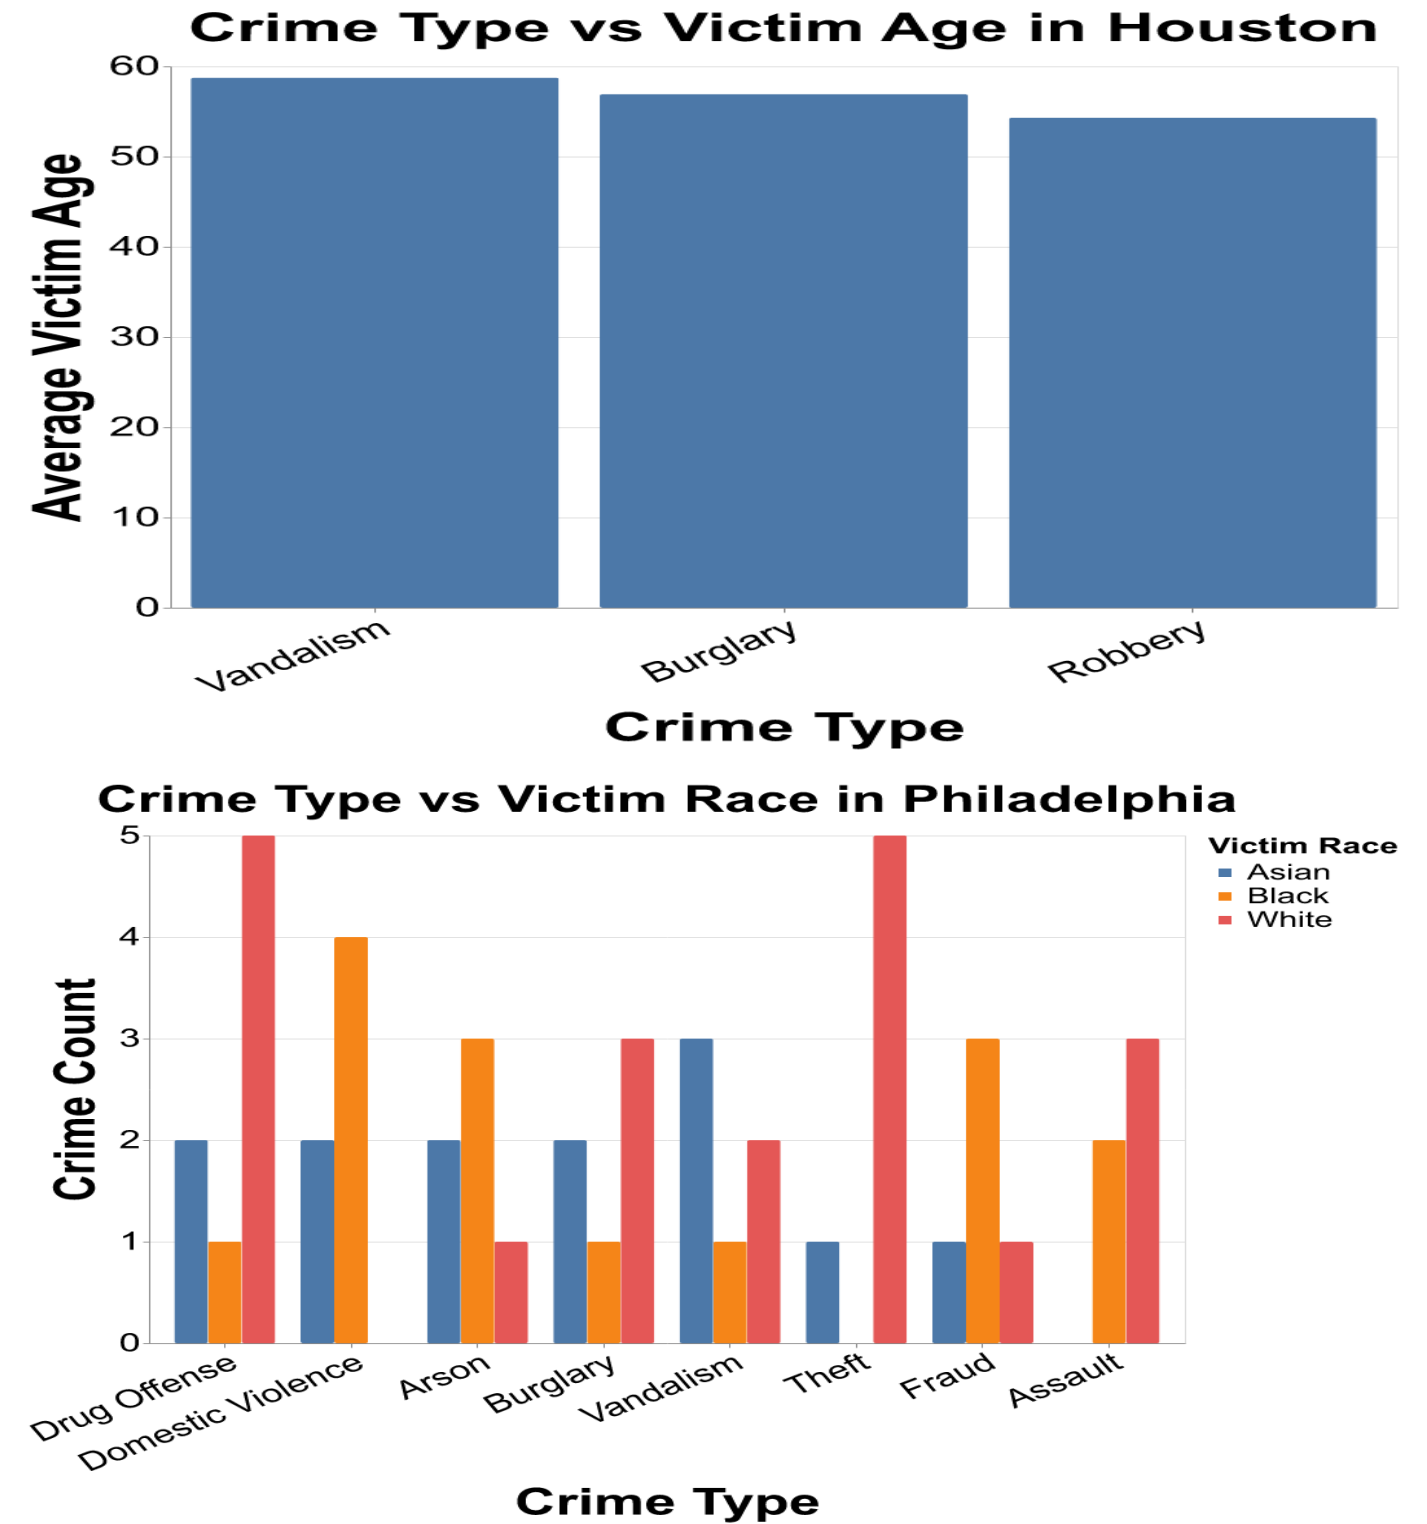

01 Victim age varies by city, with specific crime types dominating each location.

02 Crime types differ by victim race, highlighting racial disparities in crime impact.

03 Houston and Philadelphia show distinct crime patterns when analyzed by victim age and race.

CONCLUSION

Victim age varies significantly across cities and crime types. Crime impact differs notably among racial groups. Houston and Philadelphia exhibit unique crime patterns by age and race. These findings reveal important demographic disparities in crime victimization.