

How Do Gender Wealth Patterns Differ Between North America and East Asia?

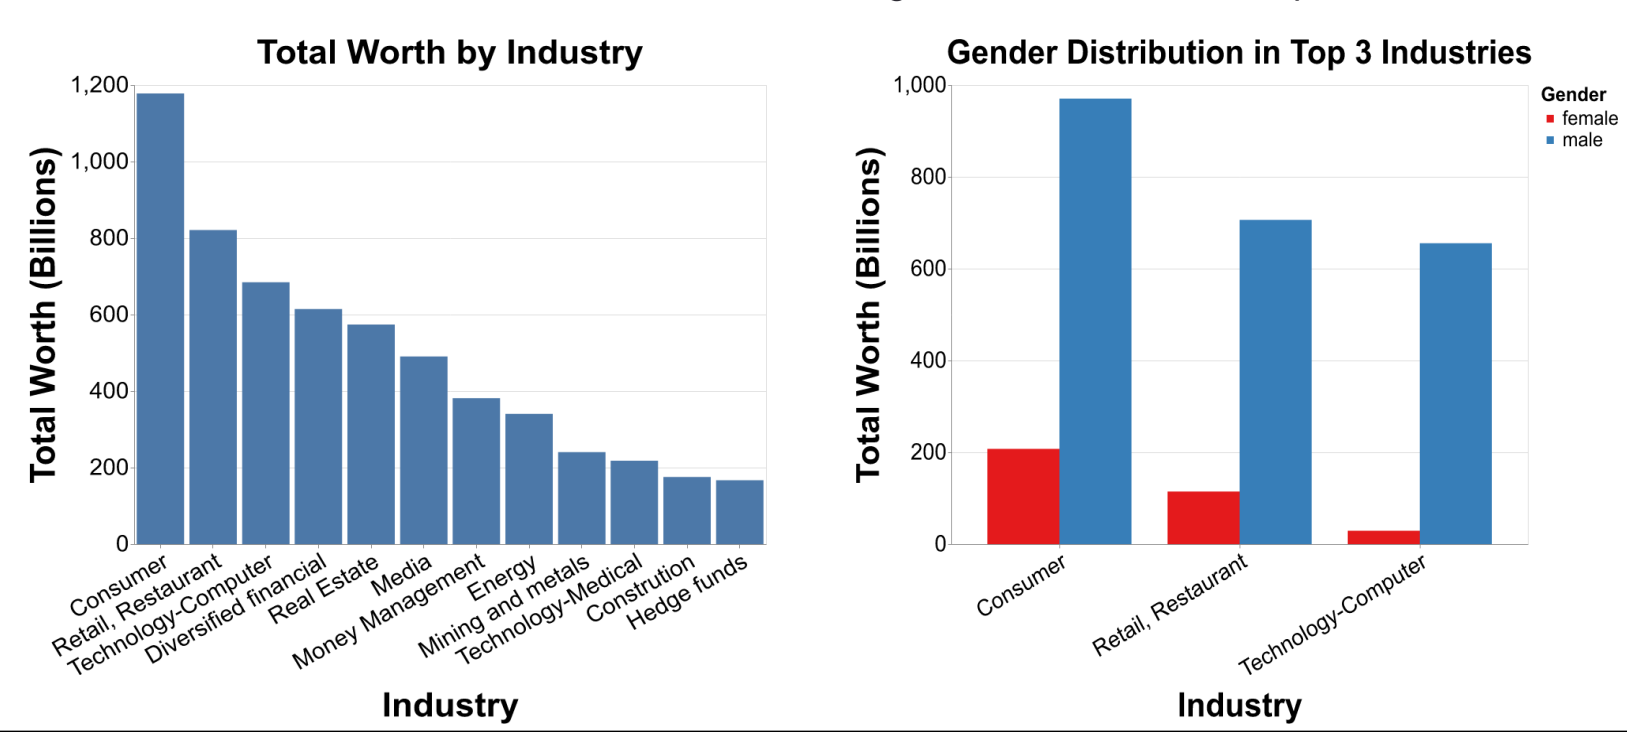

INTRODUCTION

Over 2 trillion dollars in total worth is concentrated in North America alone. This poster analyzes wealth distribution by region, industry, and gender globally. It highlights disparities in total worth across regions, industries, and between males and females.

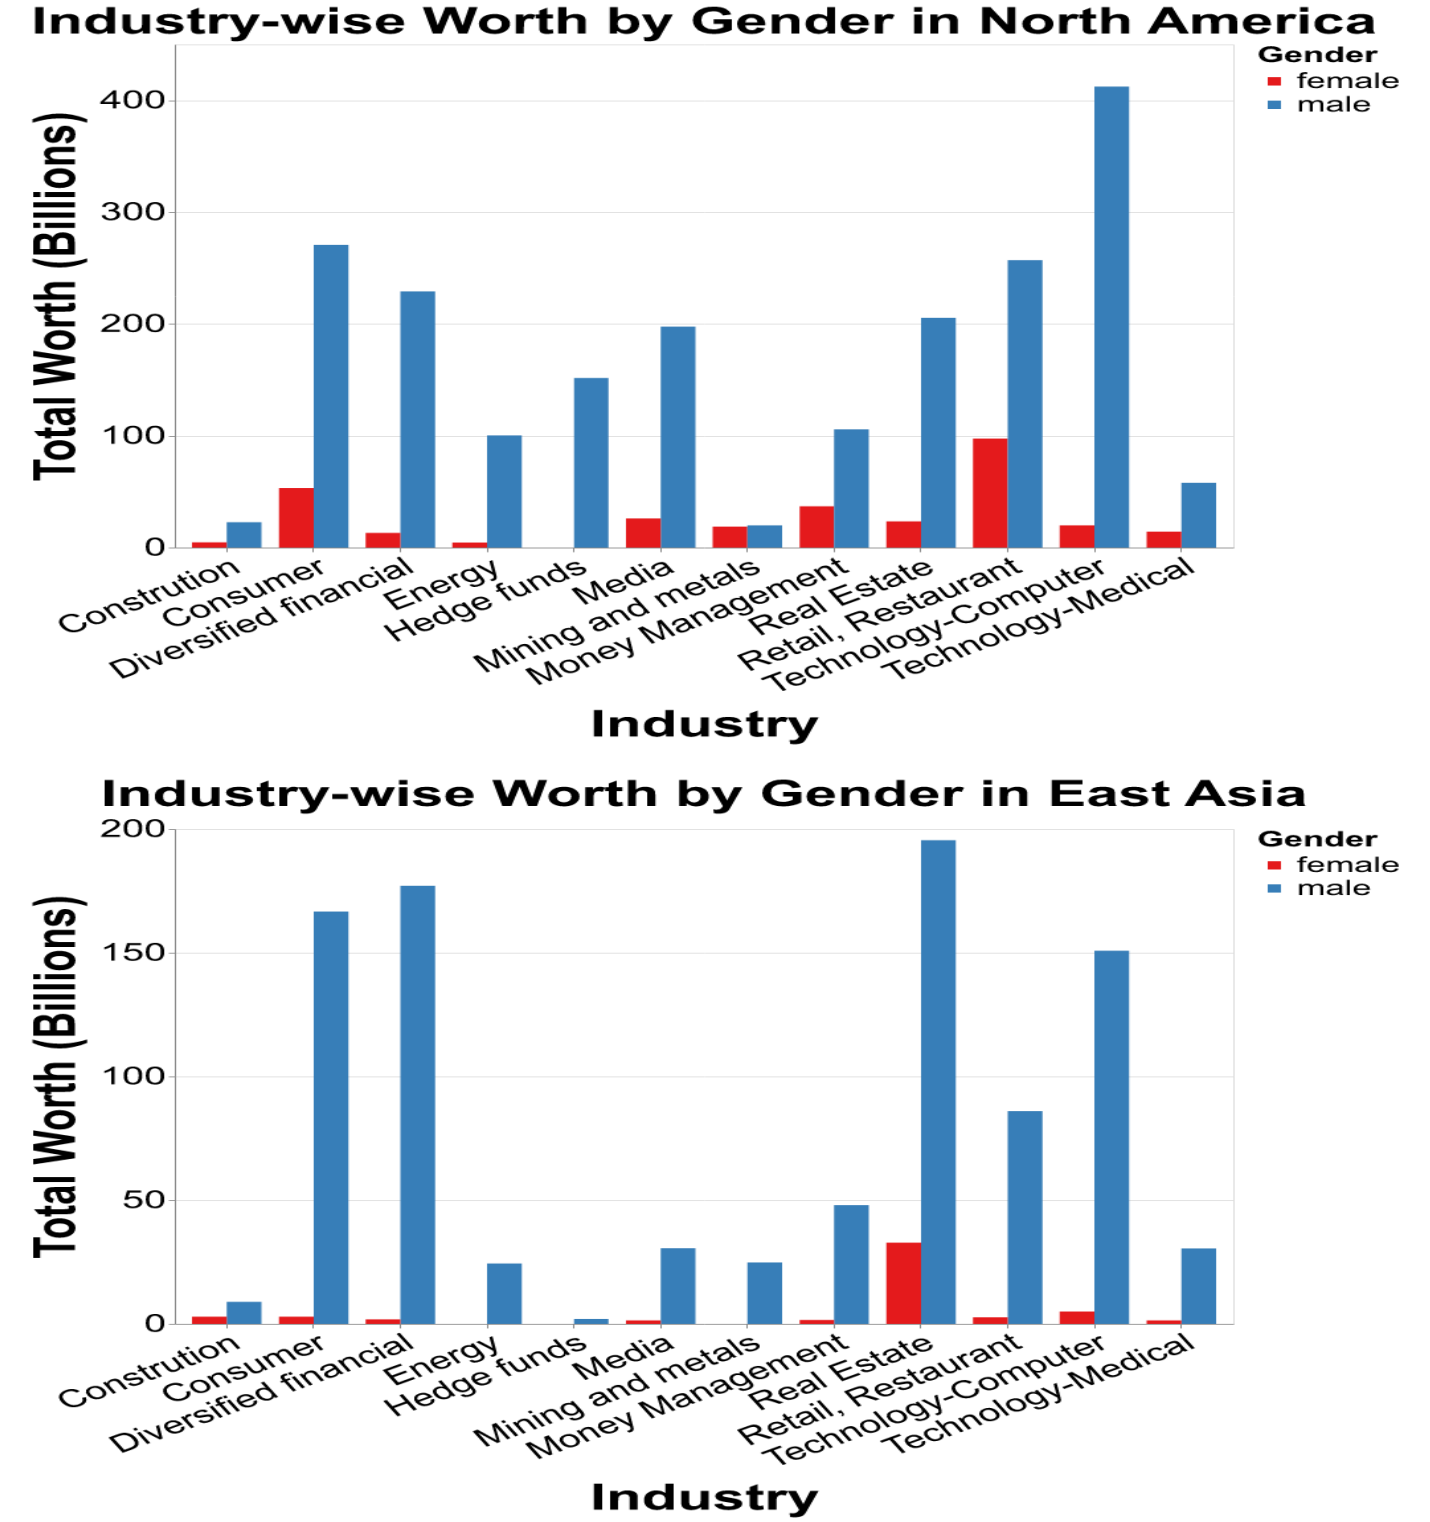

01 Regions vary in total worth with gender differences prominent in the top 3 regions.

02 Industries differ in total worth and show distinct gender distributions in top sectors.

03 North America and East Asia show contrasting gender worth patterns in leading industries.

CONCLUSION

North America holds over two trillion dollars in total worth globally. Wealth distribution varies significantly across regions and industries. Gender differences are especially notable in top regions and leading sectors. Contrasting gender worth patterns appear between North America and East Asia.