

Which Coffee and Tea Products Drive Profit Differences Across States?

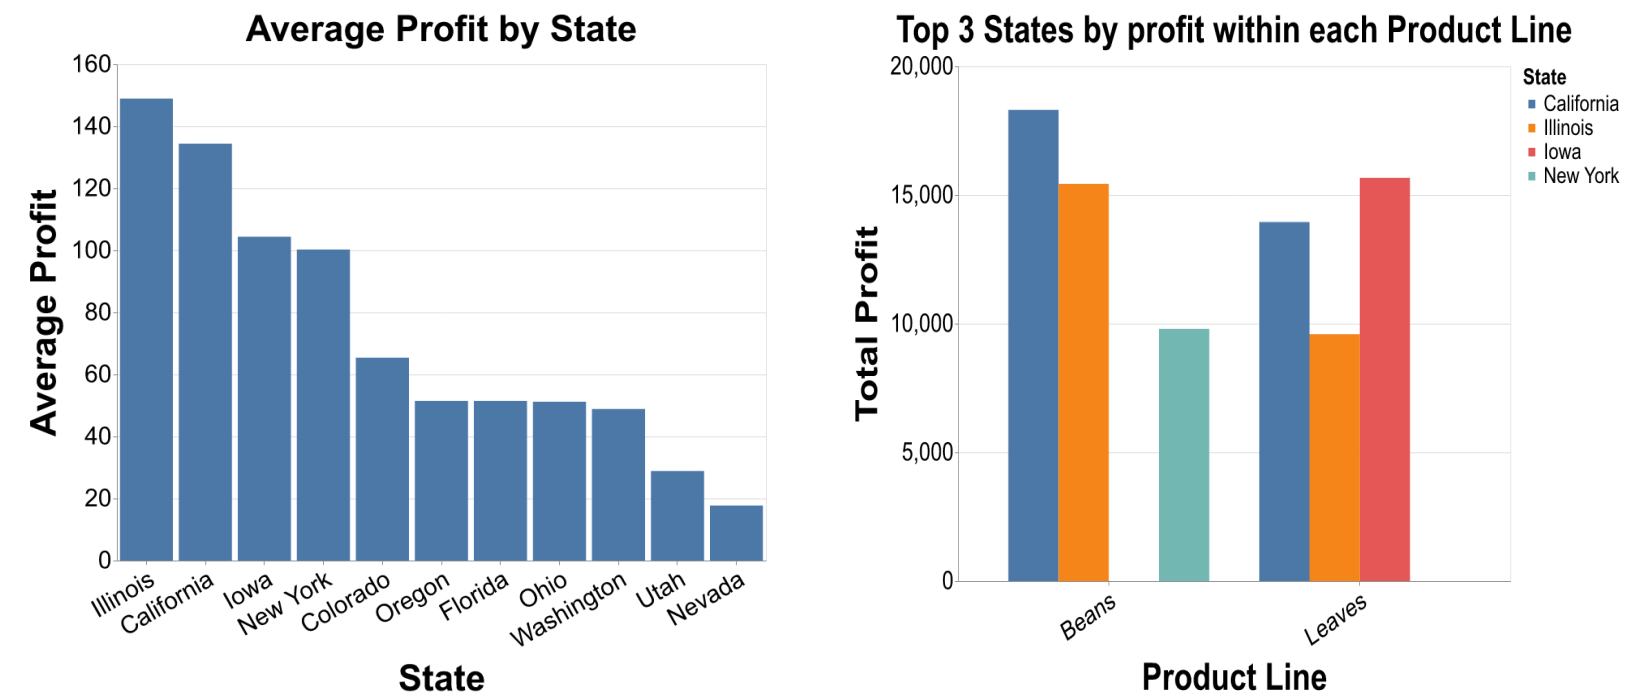

INTRODUCTION

Coffee and tea products show wide profit differences across states and product lines. This poster analyzes profit data for 12 products across 10 states and two product lines. We highlight top products, states, and their profit contributions for strategic insights.

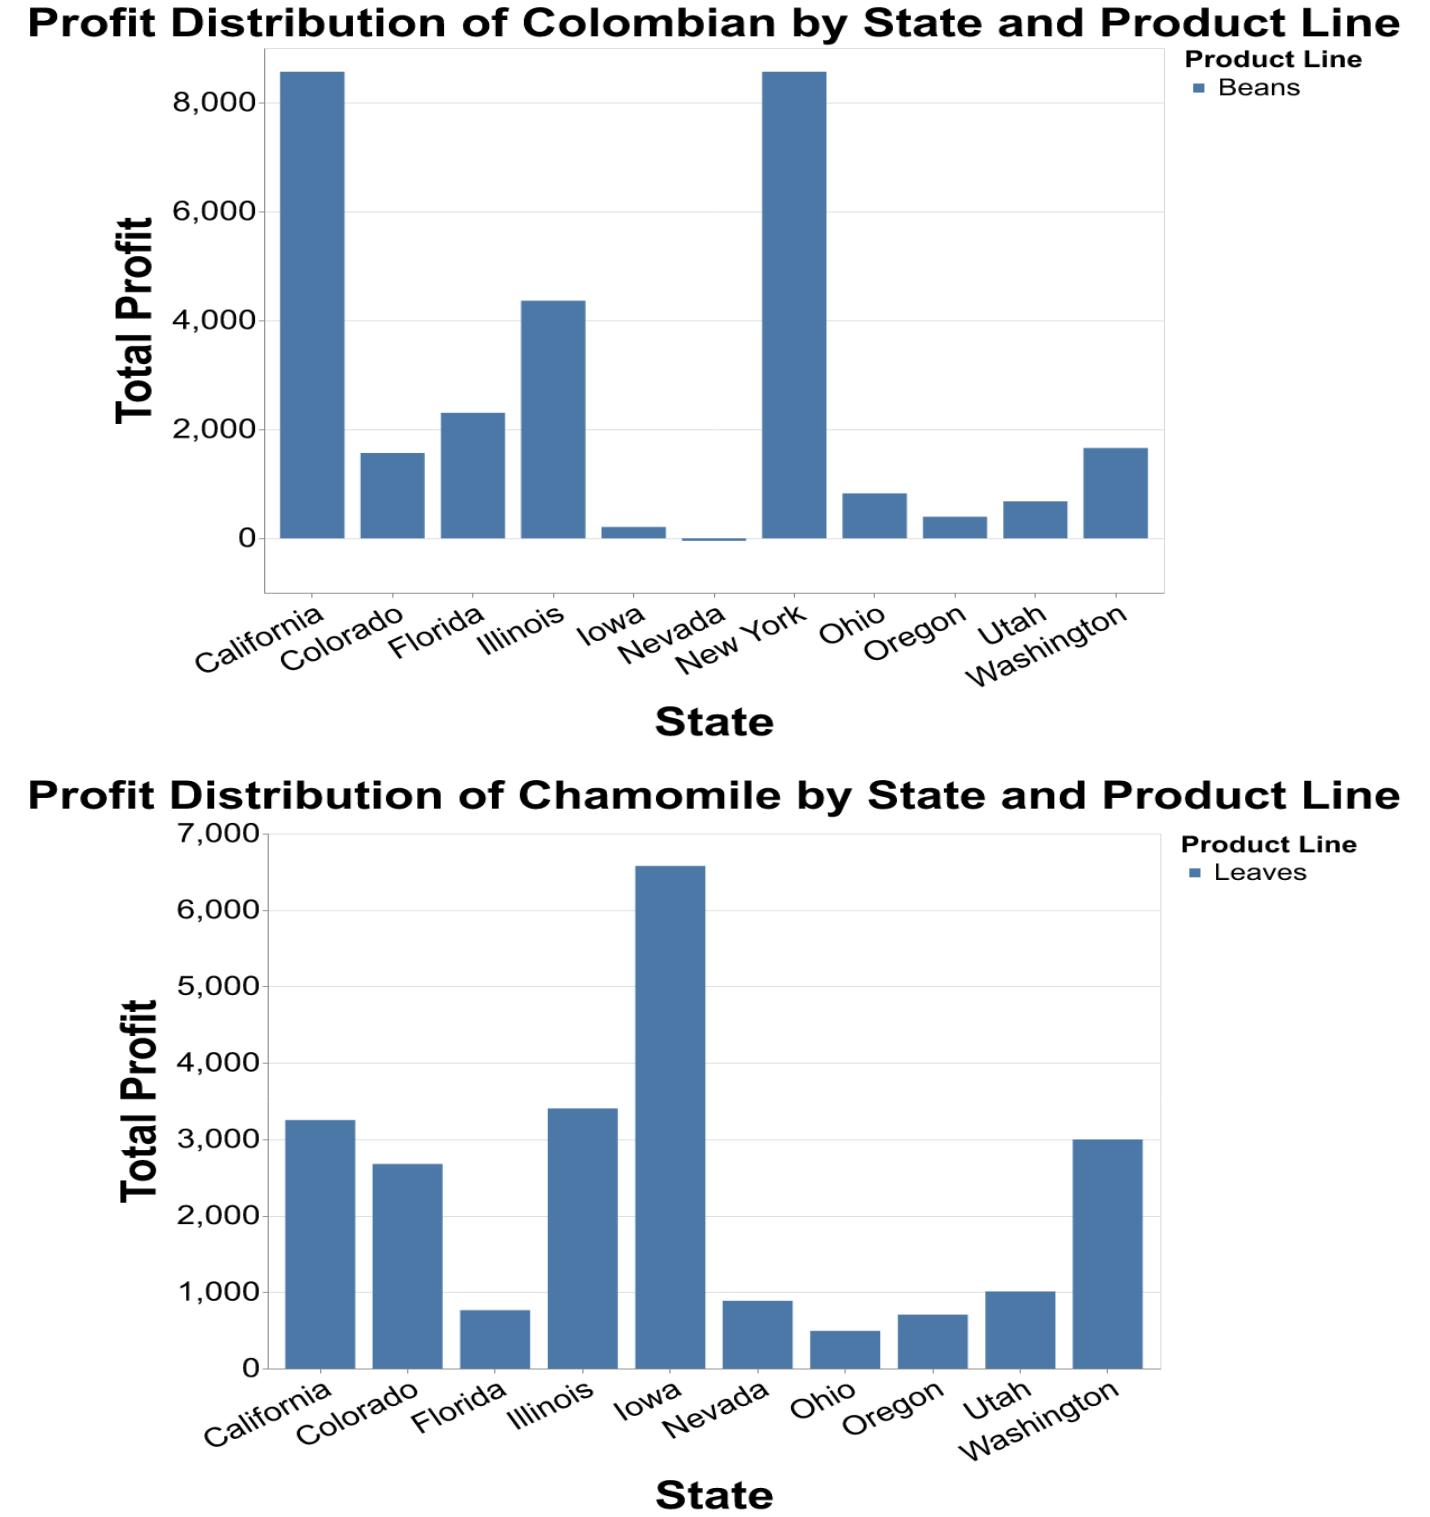

01 Profit varies across products with clear leaders in product lines.

02 Profit differs by state, highlighting top-performing states by product line.

03 Detailed profit patterns for highest and lowest products vary across states and lines.

CONCLUSION

Profit varies significantly among coffee and tea products across different states. Certain products consistently lead in profitability within their product lines. States show distinct profit patterns, with some outperforming others by product line. Understanding these variations aids strategic decisions for maximizing profit contributions.